

BRUTALLY BEATS HIS WIFE.

Scene Witnessed Through a Screen Door, But Assault is Denied.

Cries of "Murder!" startled the neighbors and pedestrians near the corner of Punchbowl and Beretania streets last night about 10 o'clock. A woman was calling for help.

A number of men immediately made for the house from which the outcry came. Through a screen door they saw a man brutally beating a woman. Both were dressed for the night, evidently about to retire. The woman was feebly struggling to release herself from the grasp of the enraged brute who was assaulting her. The men who were responding to the appeal for help saw the man administer blow after blow to the woman.

When she fell to the ground, apparently unconscious, he picked her up and threw her on the bed.

Those outside were of the opinion that the woman had perhaps been killed. They summoned the police. When the officers arrived and demanded an entrance, they questioned the man. He denied that he had been guilty of an assault upon his wife. The woman, who was now able to speak, joined her husband in alleging that there had been no assault. The explanation given was that the woman was subject to fits and had just experienced one. The officers were therefore obliged to retire, although several people were willing to bear witness to the fact that the man had brutally attacked his wife. The woman remained in bed while the officers were present, refusing to rise.

Paradise of the Pacific.

The May number of the Paradise of the Pacific is just from the presses.

A beautiful half-tone reproduction of a picture of one of the primitive grass houses of the Island of Hawaii renders the front cover of the magazine attractive, and the twenty-four pages of reading matter is of varied and interesting nature, well calculated to advertise the beauties and practical resources of Hawaii abroad.

Among other articles there is a sketch by Rev. W. D. Westervelt, entitled, "The Sons of Kii," descriptive of the famous spear practice of the Tahitians, which was adopted by the Hawaiians, and in which Kamehameha's prowess was marvelous. The article embodies other very interesting matter, and the topics of the day are entertainingly dealt with editorially. Several beautifully reproduced photographs of Island scenery add attractiveness and interest to the magazine, which is a credit, in its entirety, to its publishers.

Sergeant and Corporal Fined.

Bennett, Straub, Griffiths and Scanlon, four Camp McKinley soldiers, were tried before Judge Wilcox yesterday morning, charged with assault and battery on an officer. The story of the affair was published in yesterday's Advertiser. O. A. Akau was the officer assailed. The Court took the case under advisement, and in the afternoon fined Sergeant Griffiths and Corporal Scanlon $5 and costs each. The others were discharged. Griffiths was the only man who admitted anything; the others declared they got away when they saw there was going to be trouble. The boys of Camp McKinley feel very much put out at the action of the men who so far forgot themselves as to be guilty of so cowardly an assault. They feel that it is a reflection on their good name and very much regret the shameful affair.

A Peculiar Burglary.

The local agency of the Remington Typewriter Company has been the victim of a robbery. The discovery was made yesterday morning. The manager of the agency, J. H. Harrison, has an office in the store of the Pacific Cycle Company. Before leaving his office Saturday evening Mr. Harrison placed $300 in cash in a small pasteboard box in the top drawer of one of the typewriter desks. When he opened the drawer yesterday morning the money was gone. It is not known as to how the store was entered, nor has any clue been discovered as to the identity of the thief. The matter has been placed in the hands of the police.

THE ANGLE LAMP

THE LIGHT THAT NEVER FAILS.

It seems almost incredible that any lamp could be good enough to take the place of electricity on even terms, yet such is the case with the ANGLE LAMP. All over the Islands people are throwing away their old lamps and replacing them with this lamp, not merely because it costs about one-tenth as much to maintain (cost is no object to some people), but, besides being infinitely cheaper, it is more brilliant and more reliable in the bargain. It is a revelation to every one who uses it, and simply demonstrates that the old-fashioned lamp was a barbarous contrivance. THE ANGLE LAMP never smokes, smells or gives any trouble, is lighted and extinguished as easily as gas, and is the ideal light from every standpoint. We carry these lamps from $1.50 up.
